

TV mag recommends

NEW FROM WEDNESDAY

STACEY DOOLEY: LOCKDOWN HEROES
BBC iPlayer She may be in lockdown, but that's not stopping Stacey. Here, she scours the internet to find everyday heroes up and down the country who have excelled themselves in these testing times.

NEW FROM WEDNESDAY

THE WRONG MISSY Netflix The phrase "guilty pleasure" was invented for this daft but delightful film. Tim Morris (Love's David Spade) meets the woman of his dreams and invites her on his work retreat. But a mix-up means a nightmare past date turns up instead.

AVAILABLE NOW

THE DISNEY FAMILY SINGALONG Disney+ Blow off some steam by singing some huge Disney tunes alongside Christina Aguilera, Michael Bublé, Ariana Grande and others - who will all be joining in from their homes - in this musical extravaganza. All together now...

NEW FROM TUESDAY

JERRY SEINFELD: 23 HOURS TO KILL
Netflix Comedy great Jerry Seinfeld delivers an hour-long special, filmed at the Beacon Theatre in New York City. He puts his spin on the quirks of modern life, including why Pop Tarts are so important and the curse of a bad buffet.

AVAILABLE NOW

PROP CULTURE Disney+ This docuseries traces the props that have made Disney films iconic, from Mary Poppins' umbrella to Jack Sparrow's coat. The show's film-obsessive host Dan Lanigan has previously spent $169,900 on a Ghostbusters proton pack!

